

Going to the Optician

What to expect....

The optician will look into your eyes to check your vision and the health of your eyes.

To do this, they may shine a light into your eyes.

The optician will ask you to read letters from far away to see how well you can see.

They will put glasses on you and change the lenses.

Things may look blurred.

You may need to wear glasses so you can see better.

The optician may put drops into your eyes to make them better.
